Direct Contingent Talent Acquisition

Acquiring qualified contingent talent at a moment's notice can be an arduous task for any organization. The competitive landscape of today's extended workforce makes it difficult to find and attract the most qualified candidates during the brief time they may be available. As such, direct access to and a curated relationship with talent is essential for companies attempting to better connect with their contingent workforce.

With ELEVATE Mobile Direct, companies plug into and/or build their own talent pools of highly qualified, pre-vetted resources. Companies gain access to the platform's powerful Talent Pool Management Platform to accelerate the sourcing and engagement of these resources for their short-term project needs.

Employers - Next-gen Contingent Talent Pool Management

Employers can now leverage the mobile platform to engage with resources and push job requirements to highly-defined and targeted pools of contingent talent. Hiring managers are able to search, match, pipeline, shortlist resources for specific positions and ultimately fill those positions using one of the most efficient processes on the market today. Once the position is filled, employers can manage work assignments with start/end date notifications, onboarding and offboarding, time and expense capture/ reporting, and continually engaging resources with news broadcasts and direct messaging.

The platform can also be used by employers to promote job events in various locations and targeted to specific talent pools. Employers are able to keep resources engaged with their brand by curating company news and talent pool specific blog posts.

Resources - Long-lasting Engagement

With ELEVATE Mobile Direct, resources are able to subscribe to relevant talent pools and use the mobile platform to stay informed about job opportunities and manage their professional profiles. Resource profiles are used to maintain current employment status, primary skill sets, certifications, areas of interests and availability. Talent pool members can leverage many of the collaborative features on the platform to engage directly with employers and / or other individual members of the pool. Once engaged on an assignment, members can use to platform to record their time and report any job-related expenses.
